Summary

My satisfaction lies in finding answers to my never ending quest of why, how and when but my curiosity keeps bringing me back for more. My sight is constantly looking out for patterns in almost all the aspects of life like counting the tiles at subway platform to figuring out where the doors will open, which always leads me to be more efficient. My love for solving arithmetic problems and always looking out to improve the answer led me to instantly fall in love with code.

Interests

I am a frequent micro-blogger, (do check out my twitter) who often posts about what's happening in my day-to-day life. I love exploring the tech scene in Toronto by actively taking part in Hackathons and tech meetups. I am learning React.js and I volunteer for solving civic issues using technology, do yoga and play my Yamaha FG700S accoustic guitar!
